Federal Crop Insurance Corporation
Washington 25, D. C.

IMPORTANT!

To Insured Farmers

If your insured crop is destroyed or substantially destroyed, you will be expected to replant or reseed it if it is practicable to do so. If it is practicable but you do not replant or reseed, you will not owe a premium nor will you be able to collect an indemnity. In such cases, the land may be put to other use without the consent of the Corporation.

If it is too late to replant or reseed the insured crop, the insured acreage must not be put to another use without the written consent of the Corporation. If you do so, you forfeit your right to an indemnity but the premium will be collected.

If your insured crop is damaged from a cause covered by your contract to such an extent that you think you have a loss or that a loss is probable, you should write the county AAA committee immediately. This will be your official notice to the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation that your crop has been damaged.

If you want an immediate inspection to get the acreage released for another use or to get an early settlement of a total loss, you may notify the county AAA office by telephone or personal visit. However, a written notice of the damage ALSO is required.

In order to determine the amount of your insurance coverage, you must report promptly the acreage seeded or planted. A form will be mailed you by the county office for your use in reporting the total acreage seeded. Be sure to report all the acreage in the county in which you have an interest at the time of seeding or planting. If you fail to receive a report form or if you misplace it, ask the AAA office for one.
